Isani Nephawe

What are you studying?

BA in Geography

Where are you studying?

University of Johannesburg

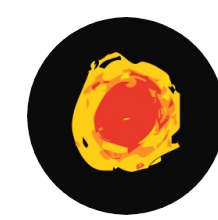

How do you want the Efeng Bacha Initiative to assist your entrepreneurship journey?

I would appreciate it if I could be exposed more to sponsors (being able to present my business), and to be able to network with business persons who are already in the same field as I.

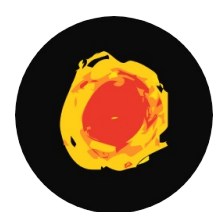

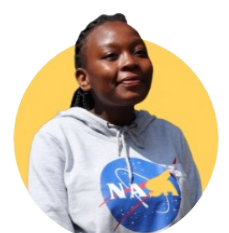

How do you #ServeLikeMadiba?

I have taken it up to serve like Madiba by volunteering in anyway possible to help the youth and children, as of now I have volunteered into UNICEF South Africa, to help make taps in disadvantageous places, and I also go to the orphanages whenever I get time because having an orphanage is one of my goals.

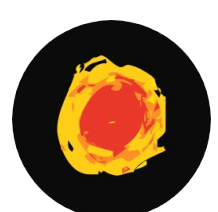

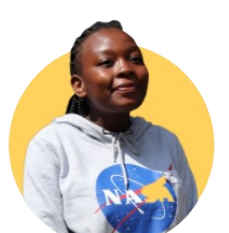

As a #legacyleader, what is your advice to the children and youth of our nation?

I advise the children and youth to not think there is a certain age they must first reach in order to start taking up space, I believe the time is now and they shouldn't down look any opportunity that comes their way because the future is created in the presence not in the future.

What is the legacy you hope to leave one day?

I hope to have opened a platform (more like an organisation) for youth to be exposed to entrepreneurship and edutainment activities to channel their minds into a world of possibilities, rather than being exposed to substance abuse and 'limiting' mind-sets of people that may surround them, especially at township areas.

What is your favourite Nelson Mandela quote?

It all seems impossible until its done.
